Eyes That See Not

Are often those that are not properly corrected with scientifically fitted glasses.

The world would be different if you had that defect properly corrected.

No one can well afford, from the standpoint of their own comfort, not to see clearly all the beautiful things nature has so graciously distributed.

This question of eye-glass wearing is not a financial one, but rather personal comfort and culture.

Then we can make the mounting set so comfortably on the face that it will be a distinct pleasure to wear these.
